

MODULAR FACT SHEET

MASTER OF DIVINITY, MASTER OF ARTS PRACTICAL THEOLOGY

In today's highly mobile and fast-paced society, it can be difficult to earn a residential degree at the graduate level. ORU's fully accredited graduate modular courses are offered in week-long modules. Classes on campus are held once a month, one week at a time. It is a unique schedule, tailor-made for students seeking spiritual, academic, and professional training while maintaining their current jobs and homes.

Some of the reasons to choose ORU's Modular Program are:

- ORU's Graduate School of Theology and Ministry's Modular Program offers a quality professional education with a charismatic dimension
- Students, by selecting modules that fit their schedules, determine how long it takes to complete the degree
- The same ATS accredited material given in a residential semester is offered in a one-week format with pre-course and post-course assignments
- Flexible schedule
- Curriculum prepares ministries and leaders for the 21st century
- Distance Library Resources
- Professors who are experienced in their respective fields give valuable instruction and impart their spirit of excellence
- Relationship of students with professors and with one another
