Presidential PERSPECTIVE

LIGHT IS DIM, WHERE MY VOICE IS HEARD SMALL, AND MY HEALING POW...

The Eagle Has Landed

The Eagle has landed! These famous words were uttered by Neil Armstrong when his spacecraft landed on the moon and for many years, have signaled the arrival of the President of the United States in Air Force One. This phrase took on new meaning during our second chapel of the fall semester.

We thought it would be great to have what we called “Eagle Day” — to reflect on what it means to be a Golden Eagle at ORU and the Bible’s challenge to live like an eagle. We contacted the World Bird Sanctuary near St. Louis and arranged to have Kili, a live golden eagle, come for a special demonstration. Joining Kili was Lewis, a bald eagle who performs at events such as St. Louis Cardinals baseball games.

Chapel was going well. Kili came on stage as I spoke on “Living like an Eagle.” Midway through my talk, we planned to have Lewis fly from the balcony to the stage. (All of us had practiced beforehand exactly where to stand and what to do.)

So Lewis appeared in the balcony, and everyone turned to watch his flight. Instead of performing as planned, however, he made an unexpected turn and headed straight for a window, slamming into the glass at full speed and crashing to the floor.

Watching in horror as this situation unfolded, I was thinking: “I have killed a bald eagle to start my presidency at ORU. Great job! It will probably not be a long presidency.” Then, to everyone’s great relief, Lewis stood up. Roger, the trainer, coaxed Lewis onto his arm and brought him to the stage for the conclusion of our service.

Several students had their phones out and captured the crash on video. One student’s video posted on YouTube went viral rather quickly. Within hours, thousands of people were watching “the Lewis moment.” Within days, the video was all over the media, including the Today show, Good Morning America, FOX News, the Huffington Post, Yahoo.com, and international news outlets. At last count, there were more than 90 million views of Lewis’s crash. This makes the Lewis moment one of the largest PR moments in ORU history.

(We followed up to confirm that Lewis was in good health, and we’re glad to report that he is fine and still performing at his usual events.)

Kili, a female golden eagle, exhibited her impressive wing span at ORU's Golden Eagle chapel.

In reflecting on our eagle moment, I think about our students and alumni who are called to “hear His voice” and soar like an eagle for God. At times, though, we hit tough barriers like sickness, job loss, relationship difficulties, financial pressure, conflict with children, or the death of a loved one that knock us to the ground. Instead of soaring, we are “flooring,” stunned and disoriented. If this describes your plight, look up: your spiritual trainer, the Holy Spirit, is on His way to you right now. The same God who turned what I thought was disaster into a great public relations moment can turn your situation around and get you back above the clouds. You can do it. You are stunned but not finished. Face the wind, spread your wings, believe . . . soar! Oh, and don't forget to join us for our next Golden Eagle Day!

Let the WHOLE WORLD Know

Inauguration ceremony emphasizes ORU's commitment to globalization.

The inauguration of Dr. William “Billy” Wilson made one thing perfectly clear: globalization will most definitely be the focus of the new president’s tenure.

The ceremony began with a “Parade of Nations” as students marched in while carrying the flags of 193 countries. The opening prayer was given by trustee Dr. David Ramirez, a member of the Empowered21 Latin America Cabinet, who spoke of “a new season” at ORU, “a season of a renewed passion to God, to the Holy Spirit, and to the world.”

Dr. Edward O. Blews, Jr., then-president of the Council for Christian Colleges and Universities, continued the theme, describing Wilson as “a passionate global influencer” and saying, “Today marks a marvelous match made in heaven between a terrific leader in President Wilson and a tremendous university in Oral Roberts University, for the great benefit of this community and world . . . .”

Video salutations came from church leaders in Australia, Canada, England, Malaysia, and Sweden. The prayers of investiture, in English, Korean, Spanish, and French, were offered up by trustees Rob Hoskins, Tessie Güell DeVore, and Dr. Vinson Synan, along with Dr. Yeol Soo Eim (president, Asia Life University), Bishop Anne Gimenez (Rock Ministerial Fellowship and Awakening America Alliance cabinet), and Michel Ouédraogo (Assemblies of God superintendent, Empowered21 Global Council).

Former Alumni Association Board Chair and new trustee Matt Rearden served on the search committee that selected the new president. He spoke for the “almost 40,000 alumni,” expressing that “we’re thankful for ORU, but we’re really grateful for the global vision, for the expansion of ORU.”

The general overseer of the Church of God, Dr. Mark Williams, also serves on the Empowered21 Global Council. He described Wilson as “a passionate Pentecostal, Charismatic, Spirit-empowered leader who longs to see ORU continue the mission for which it was birthed and to expand that mission around the world.”

Wilson’s inaugural address acknowledged the unique contributions of the ORU presidents who came before him, and then made the case for his vision of ORU in the next ten years: to take globally focused, Spirit-empowered, whole-person education to the doorstep of every inhabited continent — what he calls “the further globalization of ORU.”

This initiative, he said, “is designed to align our school with 21st-century realities and extend our mission to the uttermost bounds of the earth. Forty-eight years ago, ORU was a United States university with an outreach to the world. In the 21st century, we must become a global university whose main campus happens to be in the center of the United States.”

ORU’s new president is committed to equipping graduates “for significance wherever God leads them to serve,” he said. And in the months ahead, steps will be taken to expand global learning opportunities and create a one-of-a-kind, whole-person distance education model. ORU’s brand of Christian higher education will be made more accessible to emerging nations’ middle class citizens.

So the message on the occasion of Dr. William M. Wilson’s inauguration was this: To those living in Mumbai, Marakesh, Sydney, St. Petersburg, Tegucigalpa, and beyond, ORU IS FOR YOU. ●

GEB America Goes Straight to the HEART in Moore

BY MICHELE ROSS

The tornado that ravaged Moore, Okla., on May 20 left devastation that will never be forgotten — and its victims in need of hope. The Oral Roberts University community responded by making big plans, working together, and extending the compassion of Jesus Christ. And more than 21 million U.S. households were able to witness it, thanks to a special broadcast on GEB America.

Jeremy Burton, senior director for University Relations and Communications, described the project's genesis as a simple question that evolved into much more.

“Ossie Mills contacted me to ask how we could be a blessing in this tragedy that happened to be right in our backyard, from both a university and a network perspective,” Burton recalled of his discussion with the executive vice president for University Advancement. “Ossie and I met with GEB General Manager Amy Calvert not long after that and started brainstorming.”

A plan quickly took shape and received unanimous support from the Board of Trustees. They reached out to Bobby Parks in ORU Missions to create a student missions team and then put together a television crew with production and technical support with the help of Roy Baker of University Media Productions, the GEB America staff, and Carissa Bratschun from Public Relations. To help coordinate their missions efforts, they connected with Convoy of Hope, a hunger and disaster relief ministry run by ORU Trustee Hal Donaldson, which was already serving victims in the Moore area. On May 22, they loaded themselves and their equipment into ORU vans and headed to Moore.

Not knowing what to expect but hoping to get enough content to tell a proper story, the team met up with Convoy of Hope leaders and watched things unfold right before their eyes. Students began hauling away debris and ministering to victims. Burton and Calvert began interviewing people whose homes were nothing but piles of rubble, and the support crew started capturing it all on film.

One personal account that stood out to Calvert concerned a man named Moe. “Moe had just moved in with some family members in Moore to begin a new job in Oklahoma City,” Calvert said. “The tornado leveled their home. Moe’s Bible was the only thing that survived. It had been given to him by his grandfather and had Oral Roberts’ signature in it. He said, ‘To have you all from ORU here, I can’t tell you how much that means to me!’ To this day he still texts me for prayer.”

She continued, “We wanted to show viewers that GEB America is not just a regular Christian network. We want to make a difference. It wasn’t just to go report or show all the pictures, we wanted to go serve, pray for them . . . love them. We wanted to be the hands and feet of Jesus. Even those without faith wanted prayer.”

Burton added, “The students were so excited to be there and showed God’s love in a very real way. At the same time, we were able to give the victims greater visibility worldwide and hook them up with resources for the long term through Convoy of Hope. It just went so well. It was a great day.” ●

The special aired on May 25. You can watch it in its entirety by going to gebamerica.com and clicking on the “Live Well” tab.

WPS Becomes Quest

You've heard of the Whole Person Scholarship program.

And you've probably heard of Chancellor Oral Roberts' "Quest for the Whole Man" address to ORU's first class in the fall of 1965.

Put them together and what do you have? The Quest Whole Person Scholarship program.

This fall, President Billy Wilson announced the WPS program's name change and the reasons behind it.

"Incorporating Chancellor Roberts' original concept of the 'quest for wholeness' opens up the scholarship program to more students by recognizing wholeness is something we are all working toward," Dr. Wilson said. "We are looking for the best candidates from around the globe that are passionately pursuing wholeness in their spirit, mind, and body. These students realize that attending ORU will prepare them for a lifetime of impacting their world."

The scholarship program, which provides awards ranging from $5,000 to $20,000, benefitted 1,599 ORU students this fall. It was inspired by 2008 graduate Jamie Weathers' student response Commencement speech, whose whole man/whole woman theme so impressed Board Chair Mart Green, he outlined a plan for a scholarship program that would help ORU recruit outstanding students who are already engaged in the quest for wholeness. Since the first awards in this $8 million-per-year program were made in 2009, more than 2,300 students have benefited. The average award is $9,218.

Alumni are encouraged to provide financial support for Quest, and to nominate students for a Quest Whole Person Scholarship event. Visit oru.edu/quest for details. ●

ORU Improves Buildings and Grounds

BY MICHELE ROSS

In 2007, the Oral Roberts University community was behind on campus upkeep — to the tune of about $50 million. But here in 2013, it's a different story. All that “deferred maintenance” has been whittled down to $3-5 million, thanks to the generosity of the Green family and Annual Fund donors over the last several years. According to Tim Philley, executive vice president and chief operations officer, this means the university's plant operations needs are now almost in the “manageable” category. In his expert opinion, that is a positive sign.

Big changes in the dining hall! This is the new chef's station.

The library has a sleek new Reference desk.

Philley shared that $8 million worth of projects were completed during the summer and fall of 2013, including “invisible” updates to the infrastructure and to vital systems underground and behind walls.

“The primary focus for the summer was to complete strategic projects that would lower energy costs,” Philley said. “In switching out old systems for new ones, we will see lower energy costs that can be sustained over time. We've already seen significant drops in our energy consumption every month since making the changes.”

Not all of the transformations have been behind the scenes. Students are enjoying new mattresses (including 500+ “extra-longs”) and better television viewing (thanks to new co-ax cables) in the dorms and a state-of-the-art chef station in the residential dining facility for healthier dish options. The music department has thirteen new digital pianos.

And there's more: classroom updates, including Smart Podium installations; a new graduate theology department entrance; Mabee Center parking lot repaving; new sidewalks, landscaping, and sod; Security Office improvements; Information Technology upgrades; a renovated Registrar's Office; new fencing on the north side of H-Lot; HVAC components installed in the Mabee Center; renovated biology and chemistry labs; improvements to Athletics areas; new Mail Center equipment; and library remodels, including a new Reference desk.

When asked what he would like to say to ORU alumni, Philley quickly replied, “Keep praying for us. We need it. And we can't thank you enough for your generosity to the ORU Annual Fund, too, which helps us tremendously with our general operating budget. Our goal is to maintain the physical plant and other operations in order to stay ahead instead of falling behind. And with your help, we can do just that.” ●

New-student orientation has left the Harbor.

BY MICHELE ROSS

Oral Roberts University's first-time students were greeted with a brand-new orientation event in August. "Arise," the brainchild of Student Experience Director Aaron Brown, arose when Dr. Dan Guajardo, vice president for Student Life, asked Brown to revitalize the weeklong program formerly known as "Harbor" to complement what God is doing at ORU.

"ORU is certainly a safe environment," Brown said. "But we wanted to move away from the notion that we are protecting students from the outside world and instead, inspire them mentally, emotionally, and spiritually for what they are really here for, which is to arise and move forward to their destinies in every person's world. Thinking of ORU as just a cocoon no longer fits what ORU is today or where it is headed."

Some familiar aspects of Harbor remained, including student and staff "welcome groups" that helped with move-in. This year, Dr. Billy and Lisa Wilson joined in, greeting new students and their parents and carrying luggage. Partiestival, Student Association's annual welcome back event, also continued.

One difference between Harbor and Arise was the sales aspect. Brown explained: "In the past, I think there was more of a theme that we are still trying to sell new students on ORU during orientation. In my mind, the Admissions department already sold them on why they should be here. Now that they're here, and we're excited they are, what can we do to help get them connected and pointed toward success?" One of the answers, he decided, was BETA groups, a way to connect new students with their areas of interest and ministry opportunities.

So, what was the response to Arise?

"It was so great to hear from parents how smooth and easy everything was," Brown said. "New students felt 'connected' with the leadership at ORU. It was really great for them. Overall, it was a big win for us, and I have some big plans to make it even better next year." ●

We are so grateful!

A simple “thank you” is inadequate when it comes to expressing how much we appreciate all of the alumni, faculty, staff, students, trustees, friends, foundations, corporations, churches, and ministries that supported Oral Roberts University so generously in 2012. Your financial contributions went a long way to help fund the programs, services, and facilities that make ORU an outstanding educational institution. God bless you!

We apologize for any omissions or errors in this list. Please call Jesse Pisors, senior director of Development and Alumni Relations, at 918/495.6610 with questions, concerns, or updates.

Still (Hampton) Creative After All These Years

BY JAMIE GAYLOR

Tucked into a stylish, modern workspace in midtown Tulsa, the hard-working staff at Hampton Creative is earning attention and accolades from the design world. The company's founder and CEO, Johnie Hampton, is happy to brag on his crew and share the secrets to their success.

"I have the best team!" the 1991 graduate said, exuding enthusiasm. "Each person here is so talented, and so unique in what they do. And yet, even with all the differences, we get along so well."

The teamwork is evident in the award-winning work Hampton Creative produces for its clients, a growing list that includes ministry leaders such as Charles Stanley, nonprofits, educational institutions, and local for-profit businesses. Hampton is especially excited to share about his agency's nonprofit work, a cause close to his heart. To date, Hampton Creative has helped to raise over a billion dollars for charities and nonprofits by creating unique and effective direct mail campaigns.

Hampton Creative's design talent recently caught the eye of Domtar Corporation, the largest manufacturer of uncoated freesheet paper in North America, and the second largest paper producer in the world. In late 2012, Domtar called for submissions regarding the best use of its paper in a design piece. Hampton Creative's artwork was selected as a winner for a 2013 national ad campaign, and was recently

“EDUCATION GOES A LONG WAY. BUT THE UNIQUE EXPERIENCE OF ORU IS MORE THAN THAT. IT’S IN THE MISSION STATEMENT FROM ORAL ROBERTS: LEARNING HOW TO HEAR THE VOICE OF GOD WHEREVER I AM, WHATEVER I’M DOING. THAT HAS BEEN THE MOST IMPORTANT THING IN MY LIFE.”

HAMPTON

Alumni FEATURE

featured in Graphic Design USA, PRINT, and Communication Arts magazines.

“These magazines are like the Oscars for creative work,” Hampton said of the graphic design industry’s premier publications. “To get your work in any one is every designer’s dream. And for an industry leader like Domtar to select your ad to run, to have that recognition . . . it’s just an amazing opportunity.”

That opportunity is one that Hampton dreamed of many years ago. “I came from a small town in Arkansas, from a small Methodist church,” he recounted. “Everybody back home thought it was crazy, but I knew I was meant to be at ORU, and I knew I wanted to work in the creative field.”

Along with three sisters close to the same age, Hampton worked his way through college. He completed his degree in business administration and was hired by fellow alumnus Tom Newman to work for Impact Productions. After several years at Impact, Hampton left to work at a local church, and in 2002, launched his own company. From humble beginnings, Hampton Creative now employs a staff of twelve, and has doubled in size in just the past three years.

Johnie and Krystal have been married for 13 years.

Wall art celebrates HC's 10th anniversary.

The agency’s growth has been strategic, however. Hampton is proud that, rather than the “fastest-growing” or even the best-known agency in town, Hampton Creative is intentional about the projects it accepts. It is steadily building a résumé of quality clients and top-notch work, and earning accolades from respected industry leaders.

Johnie married his wife, Krystal, in 2000, and they are the proud parents of two rambunctious boys: Zane, 10, and Grayson, 6. Design and creativity are also part of the Hampton household; Johnie and Krystal’s wedding was featured in Modern Bride, and their home was featured in a Tulsa homebuilder’s publication for its design. Even little Grayson is a budding artist, creating original pieces to share with Dad.

Hampton cites his time at ORU as part of the foundation of a successful career. His greatest takeaway from ORU, however, was more than a business degree. “Education goes a long way,” he said, “but the unique experience of ORU is more than that. It’s in the mission statement from Oral Roberts: learning how to hear the voice of God wherever I am, whatever I’m doing. That has been the most important thing in my life.” ●

Who's Afraid of Medical Missions?

Not Dr. Allan Sawyer, a School of Medicine graduate who has made multiple trips to places that most doctors wouldn't care to go.

BY MICA CHARITY OLINGHOUSE

For Dr. Allan Sawyer, an adventurous journey into a remote overseas village is not an idyllic dream from his youth but rather, a tangible reality of a life invested into caring for others. Compassionate, gifted, and motivated, Sawyer, an Arizona-based OB/GYN and 1988 School of Medicine graduate, has ventured onto a road less traveled by some of his peers — a road that has led him, his wife Teresa

(an '88 grad), and their four children (Michael, Andrew, Anna and Amber) around the globe and back multiple times in an effort to bring God's healing power to the unreached and hurting through medical missions.

At Kudjip Nazarene Hospital in 2012, Sawyer prayed with Clara, a 17-year-old he had operated on to remove an 8-pound ovarian tumor. "Just before her surgery that morning," Sawyer said, "Clara gave her life to Jesus."

MEDICINE CAN TAKE THE GOSPEL INTO AREAS OF THE WORLD THAT CAN'T BE REACHED. IF YOU BRING MEDICINE INTO THESE AREAS, YOU HAVE CREDIBILITY TO SHARE THE GOSPEL.”
— DR. ALLAN SAWYER

The Sawyer family was in New York on son Michael's 21st birthday (7-31-13). Posing outside the M&M store in Times Square are Michael, Andrew (in red), Teresa, Allan, and identical twins Anna (in brown) and Amber, who were adopted in Guangzhou, China, at 13 months of age.

During postpartum rounds at Kudjip Nazarene Hospital (Papua New Guinea), Sawyer checked on this mother and her newborn baby.

As an engineering major at Stanford, Sawyer was first introduced to the concept of medical missions after hearing a missionary say, “The world needs more Christian missionary doctors.” Compelled by this need, Sawyer immediately changed his major to pre-med and began preparing his life to serve others through medicine. Looking back, he reflected, “This was the first time I remember God really speaking to me.”

After graduating from Stanford in 1984, Sawyer was accepted into ORU's School of Medicine. “Part of the ORU med school training included working for two months in a medically underserved, cross-cultural environment,” Sawyer said. The missions vision imparted by Chancellor Oral Roberts and the excellent medical training further prepared Sawyer for his vocation.

Some years later while working with a fellow ORU graduate and colleague, Sawyer took his first missions trip to Papua New Guinea (PNG) with his then-11-year-old son, Michael. Infected with the “missions bug,” Sawyer was determined to return to the country — this time, with his entire family. His goal was realized two years later when his home church committed to financing the family’s first trip to PNG. Since that initial trip, the Sawyers have traveled with World Medical Missions Physicians, a branch of Samaritan’s Purse (an outreach of Billy Graham’s ministry), to PNG several more times as well as to Kenya.

Sawyer says the greatest difficulty in short-term medical missions is “doing things outside your comfort zone. All the diseases are worse. For example, I’ve only taken care of syphilis one time in Arizona, but in PNG, I see it every day.”

In 2012, at the invitation of some missionary friends, Sawyer ventured into the interior jungles of PNG to serve the Hewa tribe, a group characterized by an alarming infant mortality rate of 85 percent. “That trip made me not afraid to go anywhere,” Sawyer said.

Now that he has personally seen the impact of medical missions, Sawyer understands with crystal clarity Oral Roberts’ vision of combining medicine with God’s healing power. “Medicine can take the gospel into areas of the world that can’t be reached. If you bring medicine into these areas, you have credibility to share the gospel.”

As Sawyer continues his medical practice in the U.S., he is praying about and waiting for the next trip. “After my trip to the Hewa tribe, someone asked me where I wanted to go,” Sawyer related, referring to a debriefing call he received from his World Medical Missions logistics coordinator, Laura Berkstresser. “I said, ‘Send me to the most remote, unreached people group.’ Laura replied, ‘You’ve already been there.’” ●

In an October 2013 trip to Léogâne, Haiti, epicenter of the 2010 earthquake, Teresa Sawyer hand-picked this child to receive the shoebox she had packed for Operation Christmas Child, an outreach of Samaritan’s Purse International Relief. The Sawyers have been involved with this ministry for many years. In November 2013, 600 people came to their home and filled 3,448 shoe boxes in just over 3 hours.

WON and Done

Golden Eagle student-athletes experience highs and lows in fall play.

Seems like only yesterday that fall sports were getting underway, but we're already looking back at final results while wondering how other teams will fare in the months to come.

There was cause for celebration in women's volleyball as head coach Sheera Sirola achieved her 200th career victory on Oct. 3. Outside hitter Sara Pope was named Newcomer of the Year in the Southland Conference and setter Laura Taylor broke the school record for career assists, finishing her ORU career with 3,961.

Women's soccer had its best season ever with its most wins ever (15) — quite a tribute to the players and their first-year coach, Roger Bush. He's already looking forward to 2014. "We are extremely excited about the group of seniors who will be here next season," he said. "They will do a wonderful job of leading the program and we have full confidence and faith in them." Also returning: sophomore Kaily Cox, who was the Southland's Newcomer of the Year.

Tabbed in pre-season polls to finish seventh in the Summit League, the men's soccer team fought their way to a second-place finish. Defender Wayne Farmer and goalkeeper Ben LaCourse made the All-Newcomer team. (Note: Men's soccer is not a Southland Conference sport.)

Could the men's basketball season have started any better? The team took home the Mayor's Cup after defeating the University of Tulsa, 74-68, in early November. This rivalry goes back to 1974, and for many alumni, it's the one game they really want to see in the "W" column. Celebration turned to sadness eleven days later when rising star Obi Emegano tore his ACL and was lost for the rest of the season. Just as quickly, the team was pumped up after winning the Mayan Division of the Cancun Challenge, defeating Bowling Green in the championship game. The men, led by senior forward Shawn Glover, are picked to finish second in the Southland.

Sheera Sirola, ORU's women's volleyball head coach since 2003, celebrated her 200th career win with members of her team. ORU beat Stephen F. Austin in five sets, 3-2.

The December non-conference schedule was equally daunting, with nothing but road games against Missouri, Northwestern, Marquette, and Nebraska. Second-year head coach Misti Cussen described the schedule as “one of the toughest in the nation,” and that has certainly proved true for her twelve-woman roster of eight new players, three returning starters (seniors Christian Key and Sarah Shelton, junior Bernadett Balla), and redshirt junior Jenni Bryan. The team is walking through fire for a good cause, though: to toughen up for Southland Conference play that begins in January and attempt to repeat as regular-season and tournament champs.

The baseball team won't be taking it easy, either. Their schedule is one that head coach Ryan Folmar calls “challenging.” Could it be any tougher than what they endured last spring? The Golden Eagles finished an injury-plagued season with an uncharacteristic 25-32 record: 16-11 in their new conference, the Southland, and 7-19 in non-conference play. On the bright side, Alex Gonzalez was named the Southland's Pitcher of the Year. He finished the regular season with the second most strikeouts in the nation and was a first-round draft pick of the Texas Rangers, taken 23rd overall in the 2013 Major League Draft. Looking ahead to opening day in February, the Golden Eagles return thirteen position players and ten pitchers. ●

November was what some might call a “character-building” month for the women's basketball team. An exhibition game victory over USAO was followed by losses to recent NCAA and WNIT postseason tournament participants Kansas, Arkansas, Navy, Tulsa, and University of Arkansas-Little Rock.

In Roger Bush's first season as head coach of women's soccer, his team set a new school record for victories, with 15. Final record: 15-4-1.

The men's soccer team was the regular-season runner-up. Final record: 6-8-4.

Driven to SUCCEED

As a trailblazer in Christian media with considerable communication skills and a strong work ethic, Tessie Güell DeVore brings great energy to the ORU Board of Trustees.

BY MICHELE ROSS

Tessie Güell DeVore's story is similar to that of others whose Cuban-born parents fled Fidel Castro's communist regime in the early 1960s to seek freedom and refuge in Miami, Fla. That's where her parents met for the first time. They married soon after and moved to Puerto Rico. She and her two younger brothers were born there, making DeVore the very first, first-generation American in her family.

"I remember asking my mom after school one day, 'Mom, what am I? Am I Puerto Rican, am I American, or am I Cuban?' She looked at me and said, 'Honey, you're all three!' I started laughing and said, 'Okay, I think I can live with that!'"

She recalls another pivotal moment during her childhood. "One night at dinner, my dad said to my brother (my youngest brother hadn't been born yet), 'Tomorrow, you are not going to school. You're going with your family to witness history being made, and what you will learn will be more valuable than anything they can teach you in school.' And so we went to see my parents and my paternal grandmother receive their U.S. citizenship. That is one of the only times I ever saw my dad cry."

DeVore also inherited an impressive work ethic and relentless drive from her father, who became a successful entrepreneur. What she didn't have was a Christian upbringing. Her family was into spiritualism, and séances were common at gatherings with family and friends. It wasn't until DeVore was enrolled at Auburn University that some devout Christian friends made her salvation their personal mission. She subsequently developed a true relationship with Jesus Christ and a tangible experience with the Holy Spirit.

DeVore then found herself at a crossroads: Would she go into ministry or the marketplace? After an encounter with a missionary who had a special word from God for her, she realized God was calling her to use her gifts and talents in media, publishing, and business. Today, DeVore is the executive vice president of Charisma House, the Book Group of Charisma Media, specializing in English and Spanish publishing and domestic and international distribution.

DeVore became an ORU trustee in April 2011. She is on the Advancement Committee, served for a time as interim chair of the Alumni Subcommittee, and is currently chair of the Public Relations Subcommittee. She is also a member of the Presidential Task Force on the Globalization of ORU.

When asked what she thought the board had accomplished so far, DeVore said, "We have established solid leadership on campus, both staff and faculty. Thanks to Mart Green, the board is led with governance that is both ethical and mature. And we have come a long way in stabilizing the finances of the university. The globalization efforts are going very well and Dr. (Billy) Wilson is truly God's man for the university during this time in its history."

She concluded, "All in all, I think the result is that Oral Roberts University is a place that alumni should be proud of calling their alma mater. They should be encouraged to send their children here. And for those that have no previous relationship with ORU, let me tell you, there is no place like it. I would be thrilled if my own children decided to come here." ●

Tessie Güell DeVore stands in Charisma House's on-site bookstore, which is open to the public.

The Power of Love

Chris Busch is an Alumni Board veteran, having served as a director and as chair in the 1980s.

There are at least two kinds of strength in an organization: authority and influence.

Authority is derived from position, from law, from policy and tradition and the like. Authority is acknowledged by others but granted to few. Authority controls.

In the Bible, under the Old Covenant, the Law was the absolute authority. It ruled above all else. But Jesus and His followers would show a better way, a way to influence by wielding a different kind of power: the power of love.

Influence impacts through consent, not decree. Influence can turn the fier-est tide, but it does so by persuading the current to choose a better path.

For the next season, my vision for our Alumni Board centers on influence, both within the alumni nation and on the ORU campus. Based on love, it's intentional, strategic, and focused less on the governance of the university than on its product, outputs, and impact.

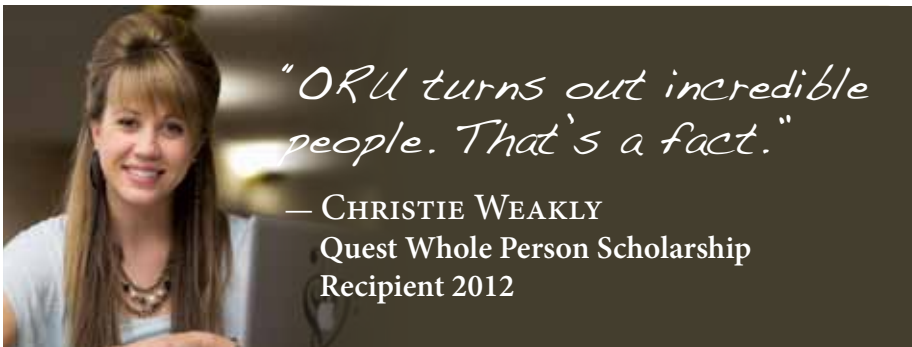

The ORU Alumni Board is a board of leaders, and it has always been so. The founding chairman, Terry Law, embodied the vision Oral Roberts had for this university. Rhae Buckley is an example of gifted leadership during a difficult season in ORU's history. Matt Rearden, with his skill and energy, guided the board through a crucial season of transition and brought the Alumni Board greater visibility and broader influence than at any time prior in our history.

And this is only naming a few.

ORU is in the midst of a new season, one of stable growth led by an energetic president with a renewed and expanded emphasis on the founder's vision of globalization. It is also a season of growing influence and of leaders leading.

I see a broader role for the Alumni Board that will involve redefining what it means to be a board member and even recasting what it means to be an ORU alumnus. As an alumnus you have been raised up to hear, to go, to lead, and to influence the "every person's" world where you live. You can also make a world of difference for your alma mater.

Here's to the legacy of influence. May we take the lead.

At ORU, you and your fellow alumni learned the importance of becoming physically fit, intellectually alert, and spiritually strong — Spirit-empowered people on a quest for wholeness. So we know you know another alumnus who should be nominated for a 2015 Alumnus of the Year award! Go to the nomination page at alumni.oru.edu, under the heading "Alumnus of the Year," and make your nominations before July 1, 2014.

The Survey Said . . .

For the past three years, Alumni Relations has been conducting annual surveys to gauge alumni attitudes toward their alma mater, and for good reason.

“As ORU strives to better serve and connect with our ever-growing number of alumni, it is important that we carefully and regularly ask our graduates how they feel about us,” said Jesse Pisors, senior director for Development and Alumni Relations. “The goal of our office is to be a conduit of lifelong value from ORU to our alumni and to foster closer and more mutually beneficial relationships between the university and our approximately 26,000 degree-holders. Our alumni are changing the world, in every person’s world and around the world; the better we know how they feel about us, the better we can serve them as they fulfill ORU’s mission.”

In 2012, we collected 1,120 anonymous responses to 24 questions. This is what we learned.

Of those who have contributed financially to ORU, 32 percent said they give because they believe in the mission. Only 5 percent said they do so because they received financial assistance while they were in school.

Of those who don’t give back financially, 17 percent said they were “unable to at this time,” or that they “place a higher priority on giving to other ministries” (15 percent). A combined 8 percent cited disagreement with some current university policies or the direction of the university, their belief that ORU manages funds poorly, or lack of a positive experience when they were at ORU.

How many said they might give to ORU in 2013? It was a mixed bag, with 37 percent likely, 29 percent unlikely, and 28 percent neutral.

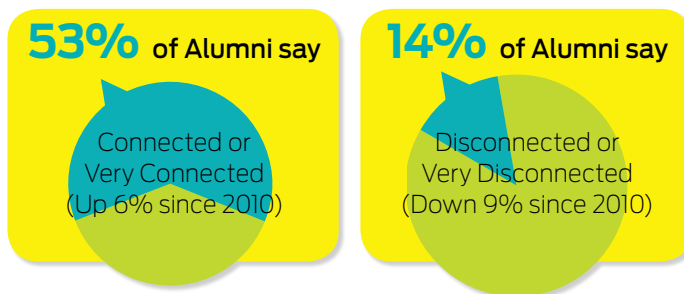

It was encouraging to compare the 2012 survey with the 2010 and 2011 versions when it came to alumni opinions on how ORU manages its financial resources. In 2010, 43 percent had positive feelings on this subject; that number rose to 51 percent in 2011 and 53 percent last year. And the percentage of those who were “not sure” dropped from 44 percent (2010) to 40 percent (2011) to 37 percent in 2012.

It was disappointing, but perhaps not surprising, to learn that 75 percent of these respondents had not participated in any alumni functions in the past year, although that’s down from 80 percent in 2011. And echoing what we’ve been hearing on the past two surveys, most (53 percent) said they weren’t interested in getting involved in alumni-related volunteer opportunities.

We don’t know why, but replies to “I’d consider giving to these types of programs” dropped last year in all five categories. (Alumni could choose as many programs as they liked.) The most popular in 2012, as in 2011, was Scholarships (40 percent), with Academic Needs once again in second place (32 percent). But both of those are down from 2011 highs of 66 percent and 53 percent, respectively. Athletics was least popular with 7 percent, while New Technology (20 percent) and New Buildings/Renovations (24 percent) rounded out the bottom three.

Most alumni (60 percent) said “Just enough” when asked how often they were contacted to donate to ORU. That’s a whopping 7 percent increase over 2011! On the other side, another encouraging number: only 15 percent said “Too much,” a 4 percent drop. We appreciate the 1 percent who said “Not enough,” and wonder how we’ve missed the 6 percent who said “Not at all.”

The response to this question — “How connected do you feel to the university?” — showed that we’re making progress:

She and her husband, Robert, have eight children and twenty-two grandchildren, and Marie says they love family gatherings. They belong to Living Word Christian Center in Pendleton where Marie is the Projector Director and Robert works with security. "The Lord has really blessed us," Marie says. She also told us that her father, Dr. Richard Rettig, who taught at ORU when she was at ORU, passed away on June 16. "What an honor: my earthly father went home to be with his Heavenly Father on Father's Day," she said.

1980s

Carl 80 and Lisa (Kukla-84) Krushinskis have been living in New Jersey for the past 25 years. Carl is an elementary school principal in a school full of kindergartners. Lisa homeschools their youngest son, Thomas. The Krushinskis are actively involved at Jacobstown Baptist Church. "We are grateful to God for His blessings and unfailing love and faithfulness to our family!" Lisa says. They also have two other grown children, Hannah and Wesley.

John Opalewski 80 and his wife, Laura, have launched a new initiative to come alongside church leaders and help them deal with the unique stress of their calling. They founded a company called Converge Coaching, and John has authored a book titled Pastor Disaster: Confronting the Growing Crisis Among Church Leaders. "In a nutshell," he says, "the crisis is that we are losing approximately 1,500 pastors per month due to burnout, moral failure, or contention in their church. Pastors experience a rate of depression four times that of the general population. The attrition rate poses a threat to the Church's influence in our culture. God has called us to be part of reversing this alarming trend. We find it both refreshing and encouraging to see ORU's renewed emphasis on building healthy, Spirit-filled leaders."

Kris Parish 80 has been named Teacher of the Year for the Corona/Norco Unified School District in Southern California. Congratulations, Kris!

Brant M. Laue 83 has been appointed Chief Legal Counsel to the Governor of Kansas. Brant received his law degree from Cornell in 1986. Read more about his appointment here: <http://cjonline.com/news/2013-10-16/brown-back-appoints-brant-laue-chief-counsel>

Rev. Jane E. Dibden 87 is the pastor of Forgan United Methodist Church and of Gate United Methodist Church in the panhandle of Oklahoma. She has two daughters attending ORU, Amy and Jasmine. All of her immediate family lives in Oklahoma now except her oldest daughter, Pastor Lisa Schwab, who lives in Maine.

Erin Brynn is the pen name of an ORU alumna who has written a book about what she experienced while living in Afghanistan with her family in recent years. The book, Finding Roses in the Dust, gives readers an inside look at some of the key issues of life in Afghanistan: international humanitarian work, terrorism, Islam, conflict and war, international military, freedom of speech and religion, repression and celebration, and more. To protect the Afghans she worked with while in Kabul, "Erin" has changed the names of key individuals in the book. She wrote the book to tell others "about the extraordinary experiences and lessons learned" through her travels "in hopes of helping others see the simple treasures and gifts of everyday life lived out in extraordinary ways." Her book is available on Amazon and at Barnes and Noble.

1990s

Mark Hicks 91 has written a book, Surprise: The Union of Quantum Physics, Relativity and the Bible, which is available at winepressbooks.com. The book "clearly connects science and faith in language everyone can understand." Mark has been a practicing attorney for eighteen years. He is a graduate of Regent University School of Law, where he worked with the American Center for Law and Justice. He and his wife, Bonnie, have two children: Mark 11 and Mary.

Aussie Garry Nadebaum 91 won the national championship — singles and doubles titles — in his age group at the USTA National Men's 45 & 50 Grass Courts Tennis Championships at Germantown Cricket Club in Philadelphia in September 2013. Last year, he won the singles title and was runner-up in doubles. In January 2012, he competed in the finals of the Australian Tennis Seniors Championships. Garry is the tennis director at Riverhill Country Club in Kerrville, Tex., where he and his wife, Kimberly, reside.

Tracey L. Moore 95-M.A. has recently published the poetic devotional, Oasis for My Soul: Poems and Inspirational Writings for Spiritual and Personal Growth. Having worked in various counseling and social work arenas, she has seen firsthand the impact that the Holy Spirit can have through uplifting and healing words. She felt that the next step was to write, hoping that through her, God could reach so many more people than she could reach alone. "My ultimate purpose for writing is to challenge readers to grow in some way," Tracey says, which is what inspired her to collect her poetry together in such a unique format. Oasis for My Soul is her first book, and it includes original poems, Scripture, journaling exercises, and prayers to touch the whole person as the reader is engaged emotionally, physically, intellectually, and spiritually by her words. Her next book will be titled The Exceptional Man, with which she hopes to encourage and recognize Christian men through her poems. Her book is available at her Web site, www.TraceyLMoore.com.

OBITUARIES

Beth (Smiley) Becker 77, wife of Dr. David Becker 78, 82-D.Min., died Aug. 28, 2013 due to small-cell lung cancer. She and David returned to Texas on Aug. 2 from Lusaka, Zambia. Beth had successfully fought the cancer for 3½ years, but its recent return was untreatable. Her faith and positive outlook on life during her battle were inspirational to all she met. She gave of her life in service to others and she will be deeply missed by many. She is a legacy mother as her three sons, whom she home-schooled, Caleb 06, Joshua 07, and Scott (Class of 2014), have also attended ORU. Beth and David were married in Kennedy Chapel on campus, April 30, 1977. She and David had lived and worked as missionaries in Kenya and Zambia since 1990. David has returned to Zambia to continue ministry and research with Christian leadership development.

Eldora Bright-Diggs, a member of ORU's first class, entered heaven on June 6, 2013, at the age of 64. She was the only female African-American student on campus that first year and had never attended an integrated school. "I spent lots of time praying that God would work everything out, and HE did!" she said in something she wrote for the Alpha Year's yearbook. Late one night in early September 1965, Eldora arrived in Tulsa after traveling for nearly two days on a Greyhound bus from Savannah, Ga. She found a phone and called a number at ORU; someone was sent to pick her up at the bus station so she could enroll in ORU's first semester of classes. "My loving family and many blessings directly relates to faith teaching I was taught at ORU," Eldora said. "God truly ordained my time there. I am honored to have been a part of this moment in history." She is survived by her husband, Edward, and daughters Yvette and Shalome.

Dr. Ronald James Brugh, age 50, died March 13, 2013 of the flu. He was a member of the former School of Medicine's last graduating class. After receiving his degree in 1990, he did a pediatric residency in Norfolk, Va., then an allergy fellowship in Cincinnati, Ohio. After his fellowship and until his death, he worked as both a pediatrician and an allergist for Morgan County Hospital in Martinsville, Ind. He is survived by his five children: Brittany, Aaron, Bethany, Ashley, and Alden.

Randall "Randy" Gibbs (1983-88) passed away on Oct. 7, 2013, at the age of 48.

Dr. Chin Do Kham, former professor in the College of Theology and Ministry, passed away on Oct. 13, 2013. He was 54. Kham received his D.Min. from ORU in 1994. While working on his degree, he was president of the seminary's International Student Fellowship. This native of Myanmar held five degrees, including a Ph.D. in intercultural studies. At the time of his death, he was the president of Global Outreach Community Development (GOCD) and the secretary for Global Zomi Alliance (GZA).

Francis George Miller, 93-M.Div., 94-M.A., passed away on Aug. 12, 2012 after years of faithful ministry in El Valle de Anton, Panama. He is survived by his wife, Judith 94.

David Steutermann, M.D., a 1986 graduate, passed away on Oct. 2, 2013. He was 51.

Current & Former Faculty & Staff

Joe Berry Cannon, a tenured assistant professor in the College of Business, unexpectedly passed away on Sept. 9, 2013, after he finished teaching classes for the day. He was 77. Having served as a bank president and mayor of Blackwell, Okla., he came to teach at ORU in 1991.

On June 9, 2013, after a brave, lifelong fight against childhood kidney and liver disease, Dr. Vincent E. Dimiceli passed away while awaiting a combined kidney and liver transplant. He was 50. He was an associate professor of math who had taught at ORU for 16 years.

Sue (Montgomery) Mayberry, an associate professor in the fine arts department (1966-85), passed away on May 25, 2013.

Myron Peace, former golf coach and HPE instructor (1970-76), died on Oct. 13, 2013. He was 80. After leaving ORU, he spent 20 years at the Williams Co. in Tulsa as manager of the Wellness Center.

Dr. Richard Rettig, a sociology professor and counselor at ORU in the 1970s, passed away on June 16, 2013, in Walla Walla, Washington. He was 87.

Roger Tuttle, J.D., former dean and professor in the O. W. Coburn School of Law at ORU, passed away on Sept. 21, 2013, at the age of 82.

Times Have Changed . . . So Should Your Estate Plan

ORU

Planning for the Future

The first step in securing your assets for your loved ones is creating an estate plan. However, what many don't realize is that step two should be to ensure that your estate plan stays up to date. With endless tax law changes and changes in the estate itself, estate plans may quickly become out of date.

We Can Help

As a free service to you, we would like to help you design your own estate plan—or improve the one you have—with the assistance of top Christian professionals. To accomplish this, we have retained the services of PhilanthroCorp, a Christ-centered estate design firm. With professional expertise and a servant's heart, they can help you design your will and/or trust in a way that most effectively transfers your assets to loved ones and the ministries you care about.

There are no products to buy and there is no obligation to you. Simply call Susan at PhilanthroCorp at 800/876.7958. She will set a time for you to speak with one of the PhilanthroCorp estate specialists. They will help you create or update your will.
